

CV FAILURES

Javier Gonzalez ◊ Updated on May 18, 2021

Most of what I try fails, but these failures are often invisible, while the successes are visible.

An interviewee on the Freakonomics podcast stated that people often see the tech stars at their top of their careers. However, people fail to understand that they needed to take innumerable small steps to get to the top. Among those small steps, there are several step backs, mistakes, and failures. Even though I'm just starting my academic career, and most definitely not a super star economist, this CV of Failures is an attempt to provide some perspective on my journey.

I copied this idea, and the quote, from Johannes Haushofer who wrote his CV of failures inspired by Melanie I. Stefan's article.

Programs I did not get into

- 2021 PhD in Economics: Penn State, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, Bonn GSE, Zurich GSE, University of Illinois, Barcelona GSE, UC Berkeley, Northwestern, Boston University, University of Toronto, Stockholm University, University of Maryland, NYU, Texas A&M, and University College London
rejected
- 2021 Research Masters in Economics: Tilburg University and Tinbergen Institute
rejected
- 2015 B.A. in Economics: Universidad de Chile 2nd place in the wait list and got rejected

Academic positions and fellowships I did not get

- 2021 Chicago's Becker Friedman Institute Pre-doc
data task and did not get an interview
- 2020 Chicago's Booth School Pre-doc
data task and did not get an interview